

This map illustrates the state of Acre, Brazil, and its surrounding regions. The state is bordered by Venezuela to the north, Guyana to the northeast, Roraima to the north, Pará to the east, Mato Grosso to the southeast, Rondonia to the south, and Acre to the southwest. The map shows the extensive Amazon rainforest, major rivers such as the Rio Negro, Rio Branco, and Rio Juruá, and the Represa de Balbina. Key cities and towns are marked, including São Gabriel da Cachoeira, Santa Isabel do Rio Negro, Barcelos, Japurá, Maraã, Tonantins, Jutai, Fonte Boa, Uarini, Alvarães, Tefé, São Paulo de Olivença, Jurua, Carauari, Tabatinga, Benjamin Constant, Ipixuna, Guajará, Envira, Eirunepé, Itamarati, Canutama, Lábrea, Boca do Acre, Humaitá, Manicoré, Coari, Tapauá, Novo Aripuanã, Borba, Careiro, Iranduba, Manaus (marked with a red star), Presidente Figueiredo, Urucurituba, Boa Vista do Ramos, Parintins, Barreirinha, Maués, Nova Olinda do Norte, Autazes, and Apuí. Major roads are labeled with numbers like BR-307, BR-163, BR-319, BR-230, and BR-364. The map also shows the state of Acre's internal divisions and its proximity to neighboring countries like Colombia, Peru, and Venezuela.