

A detailed map of New South Wales, Australia, illustrating its various local government areas (LGAs). The map uses a color-coding system to group LGAs into five distinct regions: Blue (coastal), Green (central-western), Orange (north-western), Pink (south-eastern), and Purple (central-southern). Major cities like Sydney, Newcastle, Wollongong, and Dubbo are clearly marked. The map also shows neighboring states, Queensland to the north and Victoria to the south, and the Tasman Sea to the east. A legend in the bottom right corner explains the color-coding scheme.