

This map illustrates the Loire Valley region in France, highlighting its geographical features and administrative divisions. The Loire River is the central waterway, flowing from the south towards the north. Major cities and towns are marked with dots and labeled, including Nantes (indicated by a red star), Angers, Le Mans, and Saumur. The map also shows the surrounding regions: Bretonha to the west, Normandia to the north, and Nova Aquitânia to the south. The Loire Valley itself is divided into several administrative areas, each with a distinct color: Bretonha (light blue), Normandia (light green), and Nova Aquitânia (light orange). The map includes a network of roads, with major routes like the N12, N137, and A28 clearly marked. The Loire River is depicted in a light blue color, with its tributaries and smaller waterways also shown. The map is a detailed representation of the Loire Valley region, providing a clear view of its geographical and administrative structure.
